

LAST NIGHT a man visited me whom I had never before met but it seemed I had always known.

He said he'd always had a fair for writing but had never had anything he had written printed.

"Since Friday is my birthday, I thought maybe you would print this story for me tomorrow," he said, handing me a couple of sheets of paper written in flowing lines and fancy curlicues. "I mustn't stay. Glad to have met you."

He turned and started to leave. I reached for his hand and shook it vigorously.

"Glad to have met you, too," I said. "And happy birthday, Sam!" I added as he walked out the door.

Then I looked at what he had written. It was entitled "The Little Boy Who Couldn't Say 'Boom.'"

Here is his story:

ONCE UPON A TIME there was a little boy who couldn't say "boom." But that wasn't the only reason he wasn't like other little boys in the United States.

You see, he lived in the United States and his skin wasn't the same color as most of the other little boys in the United States. I think he moved here with his parents from Egypt or India, or maybe it was Japan.

The other kids in his block called him Joe because they couldn't remember his real name since it was strange sounding to them.

BUT THEY DIDN'T call him Joe very often. They didn't even call him. They said he looked "different" from themselves, and besides he couldn't even say "boom." To Joe it was always "bum."

"Let me play," Joe would say to the other kids.

"Let me play, let me play," repeated the tall skinny one in the gang. "Sure you can play, can't he tellas? Go play with yer fodder's opium pipe!"

And with that all of the little boys but Joe would "Hah, hah, hah. Yer fodder's opium pipe! Yer fodder's opium pipe! Hah, hah, hah!"

So Joe played by himself most of the time. And most of the time he didn't mind it alone too much.

BUT ONE FOURTH of July all of the firecrackers exploding in the neighborhood aroused his interest in what all of the other little boys were doing. Joe put aside his toy gun and stopped practicing trying to say "boom" and walked down the block.

As he neared a group of boys and the exploding noises one of the boys said: "Hey, fellas, let's see if we can teach Joe how to say 'boom.'"

Joe's eyes shone.

"O.K., I learn!" he shouted, breaking into a run toward them.

Something hissing looped through the air in his direction.

WITH A RINGING in his ears and his small body quivering, Joe stood there with the faint sound of voices far off saying, "It went 'boom,' Joe! It went 'boom,' Joe!"

Now his eyes shone with tears.

He walked with quick steps in the direction he had come.

"Can I walk with you, young-un?" somebody asked.

Joe looked up and what he saw halted his tears. A tall, thin man with a gentle face and white whiskers on his chin stood smiling down at him. His pants had a strap from the bottom that went under the armpits of each shoe and his coat had tails to it. His clothes were red, white and blue.

Now what's the matter?" the tall man asked with a tone of gruffness that wasn't there before.

Joe held back a sob.

"There's a word I can't say," he said. "And those boys won't let me play."

NO ANSWER CAME from the tall man and he and Joe walked along toward Joe's house. Joe's thoughts returned to the man—the strange man with the white whiskers, funny pantlegs, coat tails and red, white and blue clothes.

"But you're different, too!" Joe suddenly exclaimed. "I'm different because I can't say 'boom,' but you're different, too."

The gentle tone returned to the tall man's voice. As they stopped in front of Joe's house he said:

"Yes, Joe, we're both different. And that's why we're alike. All of us here are alike because we all are really different. They call us Americans, Joe. Trouble is, after 176 years some of us here still don't know that."

"Son, come in now." It was Joe's mother at the door.

"Mom! Mom!" Joe cried running toward the door. "I'm an American!"

"His mother's eyes met those of the tall man with whom Joe had been talking."

"We've been waiting to meet you," she said. And with her arm around her son's shoulders she turned and walked into the house.

TAFT GAINS; IKE'S ANGRY

Reds Linked to U.S. Treasury Department

IPR Swayed China Policy, Report Says

Lattimore Accused Of Lying at Senate Committee Hearings

WASHINGTON — (AP)—Chairman McCarran (D-Nev.) said today the senate internal security subcommittee may investigate possible Communist infiltration of the treasury department and other government fiscal agencies. The group's 18-month probe of the Institute of Pacific Relations, McCarran said, brought out evidence of Communist penetration of the Treasury department during the war. McCarran said he did not know how far it had gone but declared his subcommittee "may go into the situation" unless some other group undertakes an investigation.

Reds Control IPR The internal security unit turned in a report to the Senate Wednesday charging that Communists and pro-Communists took control of the IPR and influenced U. S. policies in the Far East.

The report accused Owen Lattimore of intentionally serving Communist cause, and of lying to the committee on at least five points. It recommended perjury action against Lattimore, a Far Eastern affairs specialist and Johns Hopkins university professor, and John P. Davies Jr. a State department official.

Calls It Untrue Lattimore promptly said the accusations were untrue and call for perjury action "fantastic." Davies, now deputy director of political affairs for the U. S. at Bonn, said in Germany that he "certainly" denied the perjury allegations.

McCarran said the recommendations to investigate the Treasury and other money-handling agencies grew out of testimony linking the late Harry Dexter White, former undersecretary of the Treasury, and Solomon Adler, another former Treasury department official, with a wartime Soviet espionage ring here.

IPR Reply In New York, Secretary General William L. Holland of the IPR labeled as a "fantastic conclusion" the subcommittee's report that the effect of the IPR on public opinion was pro-Soviet. He said the committee itself is "forced to acknowledge" that most of the institute's members "have not been guilty of pro-Communist activities."

Lattimore was an IPR trustee and a former editor of Pacific Affairs, a quarterly publication of the institute.

Accident Victim

SGT. TED MCVEY, 31, son of Mrs. Helen McVey, Dixon, was found dead yesterday at 1 p. m. below the Illinois Central railroad bridge on the south bank of the Rock river. He apparently had fallen from the bridge on the night of June 24 or early June 25.

Predict 430 Will Die on Highways

CHICAGO, (AP) — Americans will take the highways 90 million strong over the Fourth of July weekend—and at least 430 of them will die in accidents, the National Safety Council estimates.

The council said some 40 million passenger vehicles will clog the nation's streets and highways during the three-day weekend. The official estimate of 430 traffic deaths to occur from 6 p. m. local time Thursday through midnight Sunday can be kept lower if motorists are extra careful, it stated.

Reds Hoard Planes, Say U. S. Flyers

TOKYO — (AP)—The Communists no longer throw hundreds of swift MIG-15 jets into the North Korean skies and apparently are hoarding their air armada of 1,800 to 1,900 planes, the Far East Air Forces said today.

"Until recent weeks, the F-86s were outnumbered as much as 3 to 1 in air battles over Northwest Korea," a FEAF statement said.

Body Found Near Bridge Is Identified

Sgt. Ted McVey Believed Victim Of 50-Foot Fall

The broken body of Sgt. Theodore Robert McVey, youngest son of Mrs. Helen McVey, 523 W. Seventh st., was found yesterday on the south bank of the Rock river below the Illinois Central railroad bridge.

It had apparently been there since the 31-year-old Korean war veteran had fallen from the span early on the morning of June 25.

Decomposition of the body made identification difficult, but police later found the soldier's "dog tag" bearing his name. A wedding band was found in his pocket.

At the inquest this morning at the Jones funeral home, the jury ruled that McVey's death was accidental and the result of a fall from the bridge.

Legs Broken

Coroner Robert Preston said both of the man's legs had been broken and Patrolman Glenn Camery Jr., who was on the scene early, said that the soldier's face had fallen onto a small stump and was in that position when found.

Camery and Chief Frank Tyne both indicated that they had observed no signs of violence.

Apparently the last man to see Sgt. McVey alive was Jesse Wayne Means, Dixon, who told the inquest jury that he had seen the soldier in a Dementtown tavern between 11 p. m. and 12 p. m. Tuesday night, June 24.

McVey had received a phone call, Means said, and said that he was going to leave. He was not seen again until the body was found yesterday.

His brother said today at the inquest that McVey had been subject to several "blackouts" in the past.

He had left his home about noon, Tuesday, his family told a reporter, and indicating that he would return.

When he failed to return to pick up his clothes, the family, according to brother Edward, thought that he had probably caught a ride to his Duluth, Minn., army training base. He was due back at the base, a national guard training center, Friday, June 27.

"I should have called to see if he got the ride," his brother Edward said, "but I just supposed that he had made it."

The body was found about 1 p. m. yesterday by three pigeon-hunting youths walking along a south bank trail. The three, Robert Hurd, Steven Schultheis and William Andrews, went to the police station where they notified Police Chief Frank Tyne. Tyne in turn called Coroner Preston and the fire department.

Hurd, 12, said that "we could just see the body. It looked like it was over a stone. We left right away and told the police we had found a dead man."

Married Six Years

McVey had married six years ago and his wife, Nettie, had lived in Pittsburgh, Pa., with his five-year-old daughter, Helen Sue, Mrs.

GOP Platform Will Lambast Demo Policies

CHICAGO — (AP) — A blistering criticism of Truman-Roosevelt policies—both foreign and domestic—was promised today by Republican party platform-makers.

Sen. Eugene Millikin of Colorado, chairman of the full GOP Platform Committee as well as its foreign affairs subcommittee, told a reporter:

"I can promise that we will draw a line between those who approve of what the outfit in power has done, and those who don't."

Millikin said most of the 11 subcommittees would work behind closed doors today on their separate subjects.

'Keep Party Fit to Lead Nation,' Says Eisenhower

DENVER — (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said today he is going to the GOP national convention to make a fight "to keep our party clean and fit to lead our nation."

In a farewell talk for delivery off the rear platform of his special train, the general said:

"I'm going to Chicago—as a soldier in the ranks—to have a hand in that fight. . . I'm going to say that our party cannot go before the public and ask for its votes unless it comes into court with clean hands."

Heads for Chicago

With this farewell to Denver, the general headed toward Chicago after saying he will "roar out across the country" for a clean and decent operation of the convention.

Eisenhower declared he will have an "open door" to delegates at his Blackstone Hotel headquarters and no appointments will be necessary for delegates to see him.

Eisenhower said that the fight in Chicago was not only to name a Republican presidential nominee—but also a fight "to keep the party fit to lead the nation. Then he added:

"And I'm going to say some things and raise some questions with every delegate I meet."

"I'm going to say that our party cannot go before the public and ask for its votes unless it comes into court with clean hands."

"I'm going to ask every delegate to help in this fight for fair proceedings at the convention."

"I'm going to ask every delegate to do his part and see to it that the proceedings and decisions of the convention conform to the American and Republican principles of clean and honorable conduct."

Taft Gets Control

Eisenhower's farewell statement came on the heels of news Wednesday that the forces of Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio had taken control of the pre-convention maneuvers and that the GOP national committee had seated the Taft slate of delegates from Georgia.

Eisenhower said he believed the convention will uphold the Republican principles of fair play and majority rule.

Eisenhower declared he will not ask any delegate to vote for him, but he does intend "to express my views honestly and openly on any question they choose to raise."

He said that what happens in Chicago will largely determine what happens "to our country next November."

Truman May Be Senate Candidate

He'll Be Shoved Into Race, His Opponents Declare

By JACK BELL

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—(AP)—The possibility that President Truman may be on the Democratic ballot in November appeared to be increasing today.

In this case, however, the evidence indicated that Truman would be listed as a candidate for

HE'S THROUGH

WASHINGTON — (AP)— Amid recurring rumors he may yet run again, President Truman made it clear today he does not expect to be president next year.

In a letter accompanying a report to congress on the United Nations, the president said:

"This will be my last report, as president, to the congress on our participation in the United Nations."

Truman has announced that he will not seek reelection.

The United States senate—not for reelection as president.

Truman said that he will not run for senator from Missouri this year or for any other political office. At his April 3 news conference, he told questioners he would not seek office—including that of senator—nor would he accept any move to draft him.

Two weeks later the President told reporters he would love to be a senator again but that he believes it improper for a president to use his job to get himself elected to another office.

That is why, he said, he refuses to run for office from Missouri.

Influential Missouri office holders believe it is entirely possible that Truman's name may be substituted for that of J. E. "Buck" Taylor, attorney general of Missouri on the November ticket for the senate if Taylor wins the nomination.

Deny Deal

Although Taylor's friends deny any such deal, critics of the President say they expect such an exchange to be arranged if the Democratic presidential nominee at Chicago is satisfactory to Truman.

Truman is believed to favor Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois for the presidential nomination.

Stevenson is regarded as one of the most reluctant of the potential candidates for the Democratic nomination. He has said he could not accept any nomination other than that for reelection as governor of Illinois.

Door Open

However, he has not closed the door against a draft movement, which might develop at the Democratic convention opening in Chicago July 21.

Truman has made no secret of

Louisiana Expected to Back Ohioan

General Heads for Chicago; Will Take Fight to Convention

CHICAGO — (AP)— Sen. Robert A. Taft's highly effective majority in the GOP National committee rolled on to flatten more Eisenhower supporters Thursday.

But backers of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, mad as blazes, vowed the party's presidential nomination wasn't going to be decided by the committee.

They predicted Eisenhower strength would flow into Chicago once large numbers of rank-and-file delegates start arriving after Friday's Fourth of July holiday.

Ike Perturbed

Eisenhower himself set the pitch. Before leaving Denver on a speech-making train trip to this convention city—he's due in Saturday—the general declared he would "roar out clear across the country" for clean and decent conduct of next week's convention.

Taft and his backers denied any chicanery past or future.

Whatever the opposition might charge or whatever might happen to change the situation next week, they were in charge of the pre-convention maneuverings today.

The 106-member national committee was called into session to iron out the latest—but not the last—Taft vs. Eisenhower fight to come before it. That was the sizzling fight for votes in the 15-member Louisiana delegation.

Plan Floor Fight

Eisenhower's forces loudly and repeatedly declared their determination to carry to the convention's Credentials Committee and to the convention floor the fights for delegates they lose before the national committee.

In the final analysis, it's the convention itself which can rule on which of two more groups of would-be delegates shall be seated.

For all the conflict between its two top contenders the GOP seemed to be getting somewhere on a platform for the winner to run on.

Sen. Eugene Millikin of Colorado, chairman of the Resolutions Committee, told a reporter there will be agreement on a blistering criticism of Truman and Roosevelt policies.

Louisiana Fight

There was no such agreement in today's Louisiana delegate fight. Eisenhower forces tried—just about hopelessly—to knock out 13 Taft delegates and substitute their own.

Ike's camp cried "fraud" and "smokescreen" at the whole business. But it glumly admitted that at this stage the Taft people had the national committee votes to grab all the Louisiana delegates if it wanted to—and a number of others to be decided upon later.

Two of Louisiana's 15 votes are not in dispute. They are solidly in the Taft column.

Taft's first-ballot victory talk drew a scoffing rejoinder from a leading Eisenhower backer, New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, as soon as he got in from the Governors' Conference at Houston last night.

Sees Ike Trend

Dewey, here to help the Eisenhower forces, saw a marked movement toward the general. He stood by his own prediction of what will happen—40 delegates from various parts of the country will switch from Taft to Eisenhower after the first ballot.

Moreover, said Dewey, practically

Nation Breathes Easier As Drought, Heat Wanes

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fair weather and more normal temperatures throughout the nation were predicted for today with a hot and humid Fourth of July weekend in the making.

The Central Plains states, a drought and heat wave broken by Wednesday's rain and wind storms, breathed easier under a forecast of warm but much lower temperatures.

Temperatures Drop

The downpours that drenched Missouri and Kansas dropped readings as much as 33 degrees.

St. Louis, with 84 deaths blamed on the heat in a month—17 within the past two days—felt the impact of 100-mile-an-hour winds. In Peoria, Ill., the thermometer reading dropped from 100 to 70 degrees.

Chicago's hot spell was expected to be tempered today by thunderstorms and fairly strong winds.

The city's high Wednesday of 97.8 was equalled on that date only in 1911.

The nation's hot spots reached record-highs around 90.

Weather

Clearing, cooler and less humid tonight, Friday fair and pleasant. Low tonight 62, high Friday 84, low Friday night 65. West to northwest winds 10 to 15 miles per hour tonight and Friday.

My Country, 'Tis of Thee

My country, 'tis of thee,
Sweet land of liberty,
Of thee I sing:
Land where my fathers died,
Land of the pilgrims' pride,
From every mountain side
Let freedom ring!

Samuel F. Smith selected a stirring, patriotic tune for the Boston school children, not knowing it was also the British National Anthem. On impulse, he wrote a hymn of his own, "America" to the tune. To his surprise, Smith later heard his hymn sung at the children's Fourth of July celebration in Park Street Church. Soon it was sung from Maine to California—a symbol of America's liberty.

THIS IS HOW CONVENTIONS WORK: First of 2-Part Series

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

CHICAGO—(NEA)—A national convention's opening days may set the mood and tone not only for the whole show but for the Fall campaign as well. So it's hardly fair to dismiss the beginning events as preliminaries.

In both GOP and Democratic affairs, the gavel will fall around noon Monday, July 7, for the former and July 21 for the latter. Things will get off with a welcoming speech of some sort, though the Republicans carefully refrained from inviting Chicago's Mayor Martin Kennedy, a Democrat.

To the television eye, activities that first session will look pretty dull. But a practiced politician might say: "Dull, but important."

They'll be naming temporary officers and selecting committees. By their names these committees are strictly off the dusty shelf: credentials, permanent organization, resolutions, rules and order of business. But beneath this verbal shrubbery lie the makings of the first key steps toward winning a nomination.

This is especially true this year of the credentials committee on the GOP side. Credentials hears the hot disputes over contested southern delegations like Texas and Mississippi. Not since 1912, when upwards of 200 delegate seats were up for grabs, have so many GOP places been at issue. The number is 95.

Republican convention rules require that some of these, 23 in all, be handed back to state party organizations for decision. The rest will be settled at Chicago. By the time the convention opens, the national committee will have heard the evidence from the disputants and have decided which ones to seat.

On the basis of its decisions, the national committee will make up what is called the temporary roll of the convention—the list of all those tentatively entitled to sit in the hall as accredited representatives of their respective states.

Senator Taft's followers dominate the national body, and might produce results highly favorable to his candidacy. In that event, supporters of General Eisenhower may appeal. It is such an appeal from a duling of the national committee that puts an issue before the credentials committee.

But before the credentials group and others come up with their reports, delegates and convention viewers get their first big dose of glamor: the keynote address. It's always set for the first night, when initial interest is high and the outside audience is likely to be big.

For the Republicans, it's General MacArthur for keynote; for the Democrats, Gov. Paul Dever of Massachusetts.

The keynote, as the word implies, is supposed to sound the theme of his party's thinking for the campaign, to sketch out the kind of approach the party would bring to all the top issues, and, yes, to flay the opposition a little or a lot—depending on the keynote's own temper.

Eisenhower backers objected to the choice of MacArthur on the ground he is accused for Taft and is unlikely to hew a middle line. There were rumblings against

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of two dispatches telling how the presidential campaign machinery operates.

CURTAIN RAISER: Walter S. Hallahan of West Virginia, who'll be temporary chairman of the GOP convention this year, looked like this when he called the 1948 convention to order

Dever, too, when he hinted he might suggest compromise on the explosive civil rights issue.

Usually the keynote is also temporary chairman, serving as convention officer until the conclave is permanently set up. But Republicans this time split the two jobs, in deference to MacArthur's special status. Walter Hallahan, West Virginia national committeeman and a leading Taft backer, got the temporary chairmanship.

It's a crucial spot. Someone said when he got it: "Whatever he does, he will probably be the most hated man in the convention."

His biggest test will come when committee reports stream in during the second day. If the credentials committee, which also is controlled by Taft sympathizers, has decided the southern delegate disputes in the senator's favor, the Eisenhower members may file a minority report. Under the rules, the convention as a whole must act on these reports, and must consider minority reports first.

The ticklish question is: "Who shall be allowed to vote on these?" The national committee's temporary roll may contain many delegates whose seats are in doubt. The temporary chairman must decide whether they can vote on contests or not.

There is precedent both ways. In 1912 it was ruled that delegates from a disputed unit, let's say Texas, could vote on disputes in other states like Georgia and Florida, but not on their own case. In 1928, the ruling was that delegates of doubtful status could not take part in any voting on contests.

How Hallahan rules on this issue could have vital effect on the ultimate convention choice of a nominee.

The Democrats also have some contests coming up, especially in

Hal Boyle Believes Two American Myths Add to Our Dangerous Complacency

BY HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK—(AP)—The ghost of many an American soldier, grazing down from the Valhalla of Heroes, would have looked with wry envy at a U. S. Army ceremony this week.

It was the demonstration of the mighty new Patton 48 tank.

"Gee, that was the kind of tank I used to dream of before I was killed in Tunisia," you can imagine one soldier saying.

"Yeah, we talked about having a tank like that before I died in the battle of the Belgian Bulge," replies his spectral buddy. "Boy, look at that gun it packs—and its low silhouette."

Resembles German Model

"Yep," says the first soldier, "it's got almost the same lines as the German tank that ambushed the crate I got hit in back in 1942."

And if the heroic dead bear any ill-will, one couldn't blame the two spectral tankmen for resenting the fact their country gave them no such tank to fight in when they were among the living.

Army Secretary Frank C. Pace hailed the powerful new 48-ton Patton as "the finest medium tank in the world."

If battle tests prove this claim true, it is encouraging. But this brilliant new weapon is still to be put in real mass production, and it soon will be 11 years after Pearl Harbor.

Two Legends

This situation points up the danger of two civilian legends that have long hampered American military power—and cost us needless casualties:

1. The squirrel gun legend—"If war comes ten million Americans will grab grandpappy's old squirrel gun off the mantel, and repel the invader."

2. The know-how legend—"We are the most inventive people in the world, and we can turn out

Men's Wear Going Ahead Of Women's, Says Expert

BY SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK—(AP)—A man who thinks that men's wear has gone far ahead of the women's field and "dollar for dollar gives a much better value" is M. J. Lovell, director of the National Association of Shirts, Pajamas and Sportswear Manufacturers.

"The men's wear industry hasn't been slipping," he says. "It's been changing."

Lovell thinks the new emphasis on sports wear is all to the good. He admits that sales have fallen off in suits, hat and neckwear, but says it is more than made up by gains in other lines. This cheerful view may not be echoed by the makers of suits, hats and ties.

Salesmen Weak

Dim view of the abilities of retail clothing salesmen are expressed by several speakers at a conference sponsored by the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers.

Some speakers called the retail salesmen the weakest link in the apparel field. This may not set well with some old and faithful store clerks.

The retailer doesn't know how to sell this merchandise, according to Charles M. Edwards, dean of the School of Retailing of New York university. Weakest points, he says, are advertising, display and personal selling.

Think of New Ways

Stop stressing items that were good in the past, says Victor Iebow, Baltimore clothing manufacturer. Think up new ways of attracting the consumer—like emphasizing fashion rather than price, to influence the women who often make up their men's minds on the subject of the male attire.

In the manufacturing field there is considerable optimism over prospects for fall. Many fall lines are going down from $3 to $7 from

Soldier Vote Bill Unlikely

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Rep. Burleson (D-Tex.) said today there appeared to be little chance that Congress would enlarge the soldier vote in time for the November elections.

Burleson is chairman of a House administration subcommittee which is considering proposals to permit all military personnel and federal officials stationed overseas to use absentee ballots in the presidential election.

The majority are able to do so now. An estimated 650,000, however, come from states where registration requirements and other regulations prevent their voting.

GRAIL SEARCH

Many knights-errant spent their lives searching for the Holy Grail, and finally Sir Galahad was successful. According to legend, it was brought down from heaven by angels and given to knights who guarded it in a castle on the summit of an inaccessible mountain.

July Fourth Gauge of Prospering Corn Made Obsolete By Giant Crop of 1952

W. C. MEINHOLD, rural Mt. Morris, and his 7-year-old daughter, Mary Beth, reach the conclusion that a new measure for prospering corn is needed for the current crop. The old gauge—knee high by the Fourth of July—has been made obsolete this year.

MT. MORRIS—The old gauge of prospering corn—knee high by the Fourth of July—is obsolete this year in most Illinois cornfields.

Typical of corn being grown in this area is a field three miles southwest of here owned by W. C. Meinhold. The corn reaches higher than Meinhold's waist and all but obscures his 7-year-old daughter, Mary Beth.

Meinhold, who also works at Kable Printing Co., Mt. Morris, has seven of the 12 acres of property on which he and his family live planted in corn.

Much of the corn in the state will have been cultivated for the last time by the Fourth, according to the State-Federal Agriculture departments and weather bureau.

Their joint report said that corn in the state has grown more than a foot in the past week. The giant corn crop in most sections is about 30 inches tall.

For Americans, Independence Should Mean Self-Reliance

Independence Day celebrates our birth as a nation. What we gained on this day in 1776 was political independence, freedom from the domination of a mother government whose colonial policy showed little understanding of the problems and interests of remote America.

Yet too often the fact is lost sight of that we won another kind of independence in the American Revolutionary War. That historic uprising was a social as well as a political revolution.

We fought for more than the lifting of the yoke of foreign domination. We wanted freedom from all manner of economic restrictions. We wished the liberty to be ourselves completely, to develop as our talents and interest and our particular environment gave promise we could.

From that struggle grew a nation wedded to the ideals of independence and experienced in the practice of it. Americans made up a rugged company, self-reliant, rich in individual resource, proud of personal freedom.

The circumstances of life in this country, and on this earth, have changed mightily since the first century and a half of America's growth. Industrial civilization, a tremendous engine of production, has transformed the things we do to get our essential substance.

The complex interplay of economic forces turned loose by this great engine has brought many problems that are beyond the control of individual men. They are often victims of economic events far removed from their small sphere. They find themselves helpless to combat the effect of these incidents.

To men in a breadline, independence is a hollow word. So when the great depression struck, they looked to the only force they could see which was big enough and powerful enough to hit back at the mysterious forces robbing them of their livelihood. That was government.

It happened that Americans called upon the Democratic Party to use the power of government at this moment in history. But many historians believe that any party sooner or later would have been compelled to follow the same course. Men could not have been allowed to starve through no fault of their own.

No one can quarrel with the aim of safeguarding freedom from disasters beyond their control. What seems unfortunate, however, is that somehow, in this painful adjustment to the complexities of a new age, we seemed to lose some of our traditional reverence for the independence of spirit that made us great.

Whether the party in power is or is not partly to blame for this is for the politicians to argue. It is important here to note only that the loss appears real. The habit of independence, of drawing on one's own resources, is not so strong as it once was.

It would be absurd to argue that we could return to the kind of independence we knew as a budding nation in the 19th century. But it is just as absurd to contend that because our difficulties are vastly complicated today, we therefore can do nothing for ourselves.

A man whose house is demolished by storm or fire may rightly welcome the band of neighbors who pitch in to help rebuild it. But he should not therefore look expectantly down the road each day for neighbors who might help him tend his fields and his stock. The normal labors and trials of life he must shoulder alone.

This is an occasion for Americans to remember their old habits of independence and to begin to give them fresh meaning against a totally new backdrop. The task calls for courage for a rising to the challenge. Americans have that courage, and they have never run from a free test.

Know When to Shed Role No Longer Befitting You

"There comes a time when a man can't do the kind-and-bug type of movie, and I kind of reckon I've reached that stage," says movie star Clark Gable.

It's just as necessary in real life, as it is in the movies, for an adult to know when a particular type of role is no longer becoming.

For instance, a bride can be right out the first year of marriage being dumb about everything that has to do with house-keeping. But if she clings to the helpless-in-a-kitchen role after the first year, it's no longer cute. After that, folks mark her up as being either stupid or too lazy to try.

A girl can get by with being a flirt, so long as she looks like a girl. But once others start regarding her as a woman, rather than as a girl, the ways of a flirt only make her look pathetic or ridiculous.

WISE WOMAN KNOWS GLAMOR ROLE IS SHORT LIVED

While she is still a bride the woman who goes in heavily for the "George says" and "George thinks" routine meets only tolerant amusement. But let her keep it up through the years and others get more than a trifle bored with hearing "George" quoted as though his opinions were the only ones in the world that mattered.

A woman can play the glamorous role only for a short time, too, with any becomingness. There's nothing more ridiculous than the middle-aged woman who still fancies herself a glamorous girl and expects to be treated as one.

And so it goes. There are many roles that women can get by with at certain ages that are becoming only to those ages.

And it's a wise woman who knows when she has gone beyond the age when she is appealingly either as a scatter-brain, a flirt, a glamorous girl, or the type of blindly adoring wife who things everybody ought to be as impressed with what "George says" as she is.

Eggplant will help make a vegetable-plate lunch or supper hearty. Choose young eggplants; the over-mature ones might have a slightly bitter taste. Peel and slice the eggplant in rounds, then dip in a batter and fry lightly in butter or margarine.

In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD—(NEA)— Exclusively yours: "How can you burlesque burlesque? Some of the sounds coming out of legitimate musical instruments these days make my auto horns sound like a string quartet!"

Spike Jones groaning about the novelty song craze songs which he can't murder because they're being murdered without his zany help.

"A few years ago we could take any popular song and murder it," Spike said. "Now we're limited because of times like 'Rock Shop,' 'Come On a My House,' 'Wheel of Fortune,' 'Butch a Me,' 'Blacksmith Blues,' 'Slow Poke,' 'Hambone,' and all the other novelty numbers."

Spike's still in there with his horns, guns and cowbells on standard and classic tunes, but he's also unveiling a new hillbilly format—straight instrumentation by Spike Jones' Country Cousins.

Now it can be told that Marilyn Monroe and Franchot Tone had a big date in Buffalo while she was working in "Niagara" at Niagara Falls. But an hour after the picture was completed she hopped a train for New York to spend three days with Joe DiMaggio.

A big lace nightgown that Marilyn wears in the film finally was approved by the censors on one condition. She could be photographed in bed but not standing up.

JANE-IN-THE-BOX

A running gag in "Road to Bali" has Bob Hope blowing a flute over a "magic" basket in an effort to produce a beautiful doll. But an old hag always appears until Bing Crosby says, "Let me try it." Bing blows the flute—and Jane Russell pops up.

MGM says the new studio motto will be "Economy," but Fox will dump $3,500,000 into the film version of Lloyd C. Douglas' "The Reckoning." It's the studio's biggest budget since "Forever Amber."

A new cycle of horror movies, as Lon Chaney had predicted, is about to hit the sound stages. Alex Gordon, an independent producer, will star Bela Lugosi and Helen Gilbert in "An Atomic Monster." Gordon's also planning "Doctor Voodoo," "The Vampire's Tomb" and "The Zombie's Curse."

Arthur Kennedy and U-I have called it a day. He asked for his release. . . . Ann Sheridan is now a blonde. . . . There's a new diet fad in movietown—onions, grapefruit and prunes. . . . Greer Garson's ex-hubby, Richard Ney, is back in town after two years in Europe. He wants to resume his film career.

Cyd Charisse, who lost out on that co-starring role with Gene Kelly in "An American in Paris" when she and Tony Martin dated the stork, is set for a big twinkling build-up at MGM. There's a big dance sequence for her in "Sombriero" and then she waltzes into Fred Astaire's arms.

INFANTILE CHARACTER
The future "I Love Lucy" TV scripts that are being prepared for Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz go beyond making Lucille's stork condition part of the story line. The writers will bring the Arnaz baby, or another infant moppet, into the series as a character. TV's getting more and more like the comic strips every day.

Elaine Stewart, MGM's new glamor dish, is just getting over a kept-from-the-press nervous collapse.

Three movie test offers already for Keith Andes' gorgeous wife, Jean, but she's saying "Not interested." Keith and Jean met in an Army hospital. She was his nurse.

Bruce Cabot's whereabouts is a mystery to his Hollywood pals, who are worried about his three-month disappearance. Even his wife, Francesca de Scaffa, is in the dark about Cabot's vanishing act.

Jack Benny, a big hit at the Palladium, writes that the big joke in London is about the redeemer who went into a bar and ordered a Scotch which cost him $1.

The bartender said, "It's very unusual seeing a redeemer in here," and the animal snapped, "At these prices, you probably won't ever see one again."

Double switch: Bandleader Vaughn Monroe was so good as a western hero in "The Toughest Man in Tombstone" that Republic's giving him a new film—a musical in which he'll play a bandleader.

The first biography of Douglas Fairbanks, "The Douglas Fairbanks Story," will roll off the presses this fall. It's by Letitia Fairbanks, the late star's niece, and Ralph Hancock.

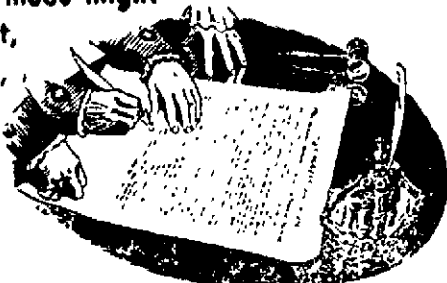

MEN of AMERICA

By Margaret Rorke

MEN who were daring and men who were brave
Sailed through the fury of tempest and wave,
Certain the future for all of mankind
Lay not in hate they were leaving behind
But in that country they struggled to find,
America.

GOD-FEARING men for whom conscience made might
Wrote for all time their conceptions of right,
Pushed the frontiers and invented and tilted,
Leaving to each the career that he willed;
All in an effort to solidly build
America.

NOWHERE on earth have men prospered as here
Under the code of no favor or fear,
Men who bore muskets our freedom to reap,
Men who have never let liberty sleep!
God, may we always have men who will keep America!

Jacoby on Canasta You Must Obey Wild-Card Rules

BY OSWALD JACOBY

"How many wild cards are you allowed to meld with a pair," asks a Canton, Ohio, correspondent. "Some say that you may meld three wild cards with a pair, but others say that you can never use more wild cards than natural cards. What is the rule on this subject?"

You are allowed to have up to three wild cards with any meld at all. It doesn't matter how many natural cards you have in the meld, just so long as you have at least two of them.

Let me make it specific. Suppose you have a pair of kings. You may put those kings down with one wild card or with two wild cards, or with three wild cards.

Suppose you have three kings. You may put them down without any wild cards at all, or with one wild card, or with two wild cards, or with three wild cards.

The same is true if you have four kings, or five kings, and so on. And, of course, the rule applies to queens, or jacks, or any other denomination.

This rule applies at any time in the hand—whether it is for your initial meld or later on. You are always allowed up to three wild cards in any meld.

Q—In a game of Samba I melded ace-king-queen of hearts, and my partner later melded ten-nine-eight of hearts. If I should draw a jack of hearts later in that hand, may I unite the two melds and complete the samba with the jack?

A—Yes. You are allowed to combine two sequences in this way in order to complete a samba. Note, however, that this is possible only when you combine two three-card sequences with a new card. A samba may never include more than seven cards.

Q—In a game of Samba, the opponent at my right discards an eight of hearts. Am I allowed to take that card with three eights that are in my hand, and then meld that eight of hearts with a sequence? It is not a question of count, for the initial meld has already been made.

A—No. If you take a discarded eight with two or more eights from your hand, all of them must be melded as eights. You cannot use that discard in a sequence.

THE DOCTOR SAYS:

Search for Knowledge of Hormones Is Lively Field

Patients frequently misunderstand what the doctor tells them and perhaps that is the reason for the following question from a correspondent: "Can you explain why a physician would say, 'A hormone injection would cure this infection, but I hate to give it'?"

No, I cannot explain this statement unless it refers to cortisone or ACTH, which are sometimes used to combat certain kinds of infections.

However, the question does raise the subject of hormones, what they are and what they can do.

First, what is a hormone? It is a chemical substance which is produced in some organ or gland inside the body. Hormones are emptied directly into the blood stream and carried to other parts of the body, where they produce definite effects.

Some of the better known glands which produce hormones are the thyroid, the pancreas and adrenal glands in the abdomen, the pituitary in the head, and the sex glands. The exact chemical nature of the hormones secreted by several of these glands is known and several can be prepared by chemical means.

The hormone of the thyroid has been available in crude form as thyroid extract for many years. Although the pure chemical has also been discovered, the crude extract is still generally used. The principal hormone of the pancreas is called insulin. When the secretion of this hormone is absent or insufficient, a person has diabetes. There are several sex hormones. The ovaries produce internal secretions which are necessary for the proper functioning of the female sex organs. Several of them, including some which can be made chemically, are used in nu-man beings. They must be given with care. Not so much is known of the action of the male sex hormone.

HORMONES COMBAT DISEASE

The adrenal gland which lies next to the kidneys contains several hormones. The hormone obtained from the adrenal cortex is of value in Addison's disease, which results from insufficient secretion of this part of the gland.

Another hormone from the adrenal medulla is called epinephrine or adrenalin. This is useful to shrink the mucous membranes in colds and sinus trouble and to contract blood vessels and to slow up bleeding. Cortisone (now prepared chemically) is another.

Research on hormones is, in fact, one of the most lively fields of medicine today.

Prayer for TODAY

Thy kingdom come, O God, the kingdom of righteousness, peace and joy in the Holy Spirit. Let thy love drive hatred out of human hearts, thy good will replace suspicion between the nations, and mutual trust and helpfulness govern the dealings of man. So may we become thy messengers of justice and peace. Amen.

—George C. Pidgeon, Toronto, Ont., past moderator of The United Church of Canada.

WESTBROOK PEGLER

Pegler Claims Medical Profession Ignores Important Reason for Shortage of Nurses

(Copyright, 1949 King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

BOSTON—The Norfolk Medical News, the official journal of the Massachusetts Medical Society, bemoans a dangerous shortage of competent nurses, states some of the reasons and suggests some remedies. But one of the most important reasons is ignored entirely not only by this professional publication but by practically all others that have discussed the subject. That is the almost total exclusion of men from the profession, or occupation, of nursing and our sentimentality over the women in it, particularly the nurses in the army and navy. It would be a fine idea to scrap these auxiliaries, settle our obligations to the women concerned and henceforth use men exclusively for male patients. We should not have to deal with any women patients in service hospitals, but there will be a growing practice in distaff problems for a long time as the women who served in the WACS and WAVES get old and put themselves in for the operations and treatments that are expectable in middle and old age.

There never was a shadow of necessity for the enlistment of women as auxiliaries to any branch. The British began it with their WACS in the first war when their manpower really was down. We took a little flyer ourselves along toward the end of that one. We never saw the day when we didn't have plenty of men to handle all the combat and service jobs but we fell for the idea that it would be cozy to put a lot of girls into uniform and ship them all over the world as inspiration to our brave lads, which was an effete notion and no good from any standpoint. The man-hours wasted by the limitation of production by union rules, to say nothing of the strikes which cost us about forty million man-days in three war years, refute the proposition that we had to call on the girls to help.

We grant commissions to women nurses and when they go to war we have to spare soldiers from real military duties to patrol their quarters and keep amorous colonels at bay. Those were romantic pictures of army nurses in the Pacific islands, dressed up in cavalry pants and doing their laundry in their helmets, but what were they doing way off there that men couldn't do? A male nurse of equal competence doesn't even rate corporal until he makes the grade and nobody tries to neck him or dizzy his head with stingers with sordid motives. Therefore we are spared the expense of guarding his chastity and we save further money on the big difference between the male and female pay allowances.

Since Walt Whitman, who seems to have been a rather precious character in his Civil War days, there has been a bigotry against male nurses tinged with an absurd suspicion that they are more likely to be homosexual than an equal number of plasterers or tailors. That is an expensive superstition because it has given the women almost a monopoly on the work whereas the entire military and naval nursing service should be male and we should have enough civilian male nurses to take care of the male patients in civilian hospitals. There is no logic behind this prejudice as a moment's honest consideration will prove. Nevertheless it has served to discourage normal young men from entering training and played into the hands of cold-eyed old hens who manage organizations of female nurses which are in effect just unions with the monopolistic vices of the teamsters', musicians' and miners' rackets.

As the Norfolk Medical News agrees, there is a great surplus of book-learning in the minimum requirements for training. A nurse has no more need of an A. B. degree than a waiter has, but the trade has become more and more pretentious and the patient now has to pay for excessive erudition in the female who fluffs up his pillow or administers the routine inconveniences of the bed-bound.

"With the supply of graduate nurses inadequate for the demand," says the Norfolk Medical News, "a price war has been created among hospitals, especially among service, voluntary and municipal institutions. It is disturbing to be confronted by an operating-room supervisor and learn that two of her operating nurses have given notice, one going to the Veterans' Administration, the other to the army. Nurses who leave for the armed services deserve commendation; but we are upset when the Veterans' Administration drags them off by reason of pay differential, to care for non-service connected cases."

The article then says the veterans' hospitals should train their own share of nurses failing which the registration boards should recognize training schools "offering less than three years' training and lowering admission requirements to less than four years of high school."

Another argument for male nurses is the fact that many young women marry soon after they are capped and drop out for obvious reasons whereas, to a man, marriage is a reason to carry on.

The "South Pacific" version of the nurse was charming; but we overlooked the plain idiosyncrasy of a situation, normal to our infatuated psyche, in which we flattered and arched our necks at a babe who would have been quite ordinary back home, because we had been silly enough to send her on a man's errand in war.

A hostess can reduce kitchen trips to a minimum when she is serving a meal if she serves the first course in the living room and places main course on the table before seating guests. Use a kitchen cart or buffet wagon for serving and for removing dishes between courses.

Camp Ralston News

Cheryl Bishop and Barbara Gerlach had a hard time with their pancakes this morning. They spilled most of their batter. They are from the "Six Oaks" tent.

Tuesday night is the last night in camp. We are going to have a program. Most of the tents are going to give skits. We hear that one tent even has made up a song.

From "Sleepless Hollow" tent—We woke up at 2:30 a. m. Monday morning to see the northern lights. Melissa Reuter, Juanita Cox, Barbara Baldwin and Kay Stripe stayed awake most of the night. "Big Top" tent had all their wet towels and clothes outside and somebody took a picture of them.

Tuesday night Mary Les Luedtke slept in the "Crazy Fours" tent, and kept them awake until midnight.

"Breezy Hollow" had three visitors Tuesday evening. They were Betty Fane's mother, grandmother and her little brother. They stayed and watched the fun.

Mistress of ceremonies for the Tuesday evening skits was Priscilla Hargrave, from Pioneer unit.

Songs were sung by all the scouts. Some of their favorites were "Little Ship", "Witch Craft" and "Tell Me Why." The girls did a beautiful job on the harmony, too.

"Big Top" tent from Hill Top unit did the "Three Bears." Karen Poole was a darling "Goldilocks."

"The Tumbleweeds" from Breezy Hollow did a skit called the "Unwanted Visitor." Amy Jones was the "visitor." Mrs. Baldbottom, and had the whole Harvey Hall audience in "stitches" with her dramatics.

"The Chattering Trio" from Pioneer did the "Surprise" with audience participation.

"Fairy Castle" tent from Breezy Hollow unit did that old familiar one, "The Stiff Man." What was he looking at??? Oh, he wasn't looking at anything, he had a stiff neck.

"Sleepless Hollow" tent did Mary had a Little Lamb." Say, girls, how do you say "Mary had a Little Lamb"?

Judy Schauf, Martha Santee and Ann Eichler reenacted a night in camp.

"Crazy Fours" tent from Hill Top unit did "Stolen Cherries." story of George Washington cutting down the cherry tree, girls. Do you suppose he really did end up getting a pie out of the deal?

"Six Oaks" from Breezy Hollow did "The Viper," you know. (the window viper.)

The girls from Pioneer who went swimming in the "swimming hole" made up a song about their episode, "Cheer, Cheer, from Old Pioneer." They had a good "chorus line," too. Very cute, girls!

We had an excellent "uke" player in our midst all during camp. She did a "bang up" job accompanying tonight, too.

Those counselors and their weeping! They lost their skit again! Tsk! Tsk! girls

Following the skits, all the girls signed their names on the "tree-fall" and then sailed their candles down the creek. It was a beautiful sight to behold.

We hope we'll see all of you next year, girls, because we did have fun together. May the wish you made on your candle come true.

The pro-Eisenhower contingent contends all the Texas Taft delegates were stolen. The Taft forces say no such thing happened—that all they did was enforce the law to keep Democrats from voting on Republican affairs.

Body Found

McVey expects to arrive in Dixon today.

McVey's brother William died in 1940 in an auto accident and the soldier's father, Richard, preceded him in death in 1937. He had enlisted in the army 10 years ago, served during World War II in Orlando, Fla., and then as a supply clerk for two years in Korea. He had returned to the United States in April, 1951.

The body was taken to the Jones funeral home where arrangements are pending the arrival of the wife. Other survivors, besides the mother, widow, and child, are the two brothers, Edward and Earl, and a sister, Mrs. Charlotte McMinch, Rock Falls.

Headed South
District Fire Commissioner John Quest, also present when the body was removed from the river bank, said that apparently McVey had been headed south (which would have been towards his home) when he fell from the bridge.

McVey, home on a 16-day pass, had been due to return to his camp Friday, June 27. His brother, Edward, said that it was not unusual for McVey to leave early without notifying anyone.

He had been in the service since August, 1942.

18-Year-Old Wife Held on Charge Involving Minor

Mrs. Marilyn Jenkins, the 18-year-old wife who is now suing for divorce in circuit court, was brought into county court this morning on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of her 13-year-old girl friend.

Through her attorney, James Bales, however, she pleaded not guilty and had her case continued until Monday, July 14.

Another court order, nevertheless, found her girl friend to be a delinquent and placed her on probation.

The delinquency charge against Mrs. Jenkins was brought by the girl's parents who claimed that she had "encouraged" their daughter to go on a hitch-hiking trip to Sterling, had arranged dates with boys the parents knew nothing about and had also "encouraged" their daughter to stay overnight at the Jenkins apartment without notifying the parents.

Judge Grover Gehant, in finding the North Central grade school girl delinquent, ordered her to be placed in the custody of the county court probation officer A. C. Handell and Mrs. Virginia Sullivan.

Truman May Leaves Amboy

the fact that he would like to return to the senate. Taylor, who has been endorsed by most of the Democratic leaders, is understood to have the support of Truman.

W. Stuart Symington, who has held several responsible jobs in the Truman administration, is running for the senatorial nomination. And the indications are that Truman does not support the Symington bid.

If Symington wins the nomination, it is not considered likely he would step aside for Truman.

President Irked
Friends of Stevenson now say frankly that they believe the president is irked that the Illinois governor has not come out as a candidate for first place on the national ticket.

Stevenson, who said at the governor's conference at Houston, Tex., that he "would not participate overtly or covertly in any movement" to draft him, did not close the door to a movement to make him the nominee. From a practical standpoint, however, the Illinois governor's friends had to admit that—barring a statement similar to that of General Sherman—Stevenson could not eliminate himself from the race unless he took the course he now feels impossible to pursue, of saying he would not accept the nomination under any circumstances.

Stratton Economy In Past Year Saves $53,529

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—State Treasurer William C. Stratton reported today he has spent $53,529 less than the amount appropriated to operate his office during the fiscal year ended July 1.

"The application of sound business methods and the practicing of real economy is the answer to this surplus," said Stratton, the Republican nominee for governor.

Taft Backers Disagree With Governors for Ike

CHICAGO — (AP) — Sen. Robert A. Taft's top campaign command disagreed sharply today with a statement from 23 Republican governors who took sides with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower on a critical convention issue.

Two of them said they believe the governors were unaware of the implications of the manifesto. The governors signed a statement at Houston, Tex., Wednesday urging Republican National Convention officials to bar contested state delegations from voting on any other delegate disputes.

Should Read Rules
Tom Coleman, floor manager for Taft, snapped: "The governors ought to read up on parliamentary procedure."

And David Ingalls, campaign manager for the senator, commented to this reporter: "Either they didn't think it through, or else they just don't understand what this means. You couldn't have a convention under such a rule."

Ingalls said he interpreted the statement as a sign "the Eisenhower people are licked."

Another of Taft's aides, who asked not to be identified, said Taft was "dumbfounded" when he heard the news.

Warren Signs
One of the signers is Gov. Earl Warren of California, himself a candidate for the GOP presidential nomination.

Taft's position has been that a disputed delegation should be permitted to vote on every contest except its own. That is, neither of the rival Texas delegations might have a voice in the Texas dispute — but the one temporarily seated might vote on contests involving opposing claims of delegations in other states.

Ingalls said that otherwise, "there could be a phony claim filed in each of the 48 states, and nobody would be able to rule on any of the claims. You just couldn't have a convention."

The Eisenhower leaders have taken the same position that the governors endorsed Wednesday.

Police Will Quiz Hoods For Slaying

DUNDEE, Ill. — (AP) — Known members of a Chicago hijacking mob were sought by police today for questioning about the slaying of an ex-convict whose bullet-riddled body was found Wednesday in a ditch near Dundee.

The victim, with three bullet wounds in the head, was identified through fingerprints as Robert Paglia, 26, of Chicago, who was under indictment in Chicago on a hijacking charge.

The body of Paglia, also known as Robert Page, was found beside Bateman road, near Rt. 62, in Cook county, east of Dundee. A coroner's physician estimated he had been dead about 14 hours.

The Cook county sheriff's office said other members of a hijacking gang with which the dead man was affiliated were being sought for questioning about Paglia's death.

L. Frank O'Sullivan of the Chicago police cartage detail said the slaying of Paglia may have resulted from a rift in the ranks of the hijackers over division of loot.

Paglia and four other men were indicted June 13 by a Cook County grand jury on a charge of hijacking telephone company trucks used for hauling coin boxes.

'Whiz Kids' Winning for O'Neill

Gentle Touch Gets Results From Phils

Defeat Bums Twice As Roberts, Meyer Pitch Brilliantly

By the AP

Fatherly Steve O'Neill has discarded Eddie Sawyer's austerity program and replaced it with a more popular plan that appears to be putting new life into Philadelphia's wakening Whiz Kids.

Under his kindly guidance, the Phillies have been playing a brand of baseball utterly devoid of the early-season futility that stamped them as the biggest disappointment of the year.

Since the 61-year-old O'Neill took over as Philadelphia manager last Saturday, the Phils have won four out of six from Brooklyn and New York, the top two clubs in the National League. Under Sawyer, the Phils won 28 and lost 35.

Brilliant pitching by Robin Roberts and Russ Meyer plus timely hitting by outfielders Bill Nicholson and Mel Clark gave the Phils a sweep of their doubleheader Wednesday with Brooklyn, 4-3 and 2-1, and three wins in the four-game series.

The double defeat cut the Dodgers' first-place margin to three games over the Giants, who lost a grand opportunity to pick up more ground by dropping a 2-1 decision to the Boston Braves.

Cleveland's Indians picked up a full game on the front-running New York Yankees, taking their second straight overtime tilt from the Browns, 3-2, while the Boston Red Sox were beating the champions, 5-4.

Philadelphia's Athletics dropped Washington into fifth place with a 4-1 triumph over the Senators.

Harry Brecheen pitched the St. Louis Cardinals to a 3-0 victory over the Cincinnati Reds for their 12th victory in the last 16 games. Enos Slaughter continued his batting rampage, driving in all runs in the eighth with a bases-loaded double off loser Herman Wehrmeister.

A home run by pinch hitter Bill Nicholson following a walk to Connie Ryan in the eighth gave the Phils the nightcap win after Roberts had registered his 11th triumph with a six-hitter in the opener.

A home run beat the Giants. The blow was delivered by rookie Jack Dittmer following a two-out single by Bob Logan in the eighth.

Perfect relief pitching by 41-year-old Alton Benton of the Red Sox stemmed a threat in the seventh and retired seven Yankees in a row to safeguard Sid Hudson's 5-4 lead.

A pinch swing by Barney McCosky drove in Dale Mitchell with the run that gave the Indians a 10-inning triumph over the Browns.

White Sox Eye Second Today

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago White Sox, locked in percentage point battle with Cleveland, Washington and Boston for second place, tried to tack up two important victories today against the St. Louis Browns that could give them sole possession of the run-in-up spot.

The Sox will finish a suspended game of April 27 at Comiskey Park with the Browns before playing their regular game.

The Sox shaded the Tigers at Detroit 3-2 yesterday. Minnie Minoso, caught in the doldrums of a batting slump, launched a two-run fourth inning with a single and belted a homer, his ninth of the season, in the sixth.

Meanwhile, Billy Pierce and Harry Dorish limited the Tigers to eight hits, one of them a two-run homer by Steve Souchock.

The Chicago Cubs, who meet the hot Cardinals at St. Louis today, fortified their third place spot with a doubleheader sweep over the fruitless Pittsburgh Pirates.

Paul Minner was slammed for 12 hits in the opener but managed to win his eighth decision.

Warren Hacker shut out the Bucs in the nightcap called after 7 1/2 innings by darkness. He yielded two singles for the first major league shut out of his career.

Hank Sauer belted his No. 21 homer in the fifth inning of the second game behind Bon Addis' single.

U. S. Netmen Out in Cold In England

WIMBLEDON, England, (AP)—The United States Thursday was left holding nothing but the bag as far as the three big international tennis championships are concerned.

Australian ace Frank Sedgman is the United States champion—at least until September. His doubles partner, Ken McGregor, an in-and-outter, holds the Australian title. And it's going to be either Sedgman or Jaroslav Drobny as the champion of Wimbledon.

Meet On Center Court
They'll fight it out on the famed center court Friday. Drobny, a Czech refugee who now is a citizen of Egypt, put an end to any American hopes yesterday when he eliminated the last of the Yank contingent, low-headed Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., in a semi-final match, 6-2, 6-4, 0-6, 8-10, 6-4.

Sedgman probably the finest amateur player in the world, already had gained his final bracket, beating countryman Mervyn Rose, 6-1, 6-4, 7-5, and he'll no doubt rule the favorite when he crosses rackets with the bespectacled Drobny, a southpaw swinger.

Out In Cold
So the United States, which has held the Wimbledon men's title since Jack Kramer won it in 1947, is out in the cold.

But the women's title will remain secure in American hands for at least another year. It's just a matter of whose name will be on the cup. Maureen Connolly, the 17-year-old United States champion from San Diego, plays in a semi-final Thursday against Shirley Fry of Akron, O., and Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., meets Mrs. Pat Todd in the other semi-final.

SPRING TIME — Meredith Gourdin gave it the old college try broad-jumping 24 feet, 1 inch; but it wasn't good enough to top Princeton's F. Morgan Taylor in the Intercollegiate A. A. A. Outdoor Championships at New York's Triborough Stadium. Cornell's versatile star lost two titles, but competing in five events was high man with 11 points. (NEA)

Miranda Subbing for 'Chico'; Are Sox, Browns in Cahoots?

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—It was a startling headline: "Carrasquel Is Optioned."

The White Sox transferring Alfonso Carrasquel to the roster of their Memphis subsidiary was a move of convenience, of course, and within the rules. Having not yet finished his third calendar year with the Chicago Americans, Chico Carrasquel could be sent out without being exposed to waivers.

Carrasquel suffered a broken finger, you see, and placing him on the disabled list would have meant 30 days. So to the Southern Association he went, for the record, subject to a 24-hour recall. No one was hurt, for the minors' disabled list minimum is 10 days.

The point is that Carrasquel being "farmed out," to make room for shortstopping insurance in the form of Willie Miranda, circumvents the spirit of Chico Carrasquel's rule. Indeed, the American League's All-Star shortstop of last summer, who narrowly missed being chosen again this season, being "optioned" makes a joke of baseball law.

Suppose Rizzuto, Dark, Reese or Hammer were hurt. Their clubs could not advantageously switch them to a chain store for repairs. And what goes for Rizzuto, Dark, Reese and Hammer should also hold good for a shortstop of Carrasquel's tremendous worth.

MIRANDA GOES DESPITE MARION'S ACHING BACK

The plight of the Chisox without Carrasquel has nothing to do with this extraordinary case. The maneuver was a dodge, and there should be no room for such tricks in baseball. Lessening the 30-day stretch for disability would, of course, open the way for subterfuge all around.

It was singular, as Casey Stengel pointed out, that with Carrasquel sidelined, and the White Sox sorely in need of a backer-up for Sam Dente, it was the Browns who rushed to the rescue. The same Little Brownies, whose manager and shortstop star, Marty Marion, is plagued by a suffering sacroiliac.

Miranda, a superb glove man but who couldn't hit Herman Hickman if he walked through the strike zone, was traded with Al Zarilla by the Comiskeyes to the St. Louis club for Leo Teomas and Tom Wright only 15 days before the Carrasquel pinch.

The next day Ken Holcombe made the same trip to make space for Luis Aloma, the fire fighter who had been on the inactive list.

WHITE SOX AND BROWNS ARE TRADE CONSCIOUS

On July 31 of last year, Ray Coleman, batting well above .300 for the Brownies, caught a train for Comiskey Park supposedly for the waiver price.

Last Nov. 27, when the White Sox required a durable catcher with some measure of power, they got him from the Browns in the shape of Sherman Lollar, together with Al Widmar and Tommy Upton, for Rivera. Shortstop Joe DeMaestri, Goldsberry, Niarhos and Southpaw Dick Littlefield.

Frank Lane of the White Sox and the Browns' Bill Veeck are extremely trade-conscious old American Association comrades.

But the dispatch with which the Browns handed over Willie Miranda, in response to the White Sox' plea for shortstopping insurance, makes the brass of at least one side, the Yankees, wonder if someone isn't being double-teamed.

Harness Horse Folk Ask: What Happened to Duke

GOSHEN, N. Y. (AP)—What happened to the Duke of Lullwater? That was the big question Thursday among the harness horse folk after the Duke of Decatur, Ga., was beaten twice by Hit Song in the historic-Dickerson Cup, one of the major previews of the $20,000 Hambletonian.

"Well, you know horses, just like people, they have their off days," said Johnny Simpson the Duke's trainer-driver.

The Duke, owned by Walter T. Candler, won 14 of 16 starts last year to become two-year-old trotting champion. Only Hit Song beat him, twice in one day, at nearby Good Time Park, where the Hambletonian Trotting Classic will be staged, Aug. 6.

Yesterday at ancient historic track, Hit Song did it again. Hit Song's time was identical for both mile heats at 2:05.25.

Earl Torgeson Fined $100 for Punching Yvars

BOSTON (AP)—Boston Brave's outfielder-first baseman Earl Torgeson was smarting under a $100 fine Thursday for socking New York Giant catcher Sal Yvars in the face and Yvars also was digging down for $25 to pay a fine levied on him.

The two principals in the Rhu-barb which enlivened Tuesday night's game here both got the bad news Wednesday from National League President Warren Giles. Torgeson got a verbal blasting from Giles for being the "aggressor" while Yvars also was called down for breaking Torgeson's bat on home plate after the fiery Brave had singled in the first inning.

The incident grew out of words between the pair in that opening frame when Yvars complained Torgeson's bat was whacking his shins on the backswing.

'Fix' Probe Ends With Sentencing

NEW YORK (AP)—Collegiate athletic officials Thursday were pondering the latest recommendations of Judge Saul S. Streit.

Speaking at the sentencing of 11 fixers yesterday in a climax to the big basketball scandal, Judge Streit urged jail penalties for college alumni, boosters or officials who subsidize players. He warned that the nation's colleges hold the fate of intercollegiate athletics in their own hands.

In handing the fixers prison terms ranging from six months to as high as four to seven years, Judge Streit spoke of them as "creeping mice... grown bold like... vicious, running brown rats... and all this for the sure-fire dollar."

It took the judge nearly four hours to denounce commercialism in college sports and to pronounce sentence. Some of the defendants had tears in their eyes and one broke down in sobs.

The stiffest prison sentence—four to seven years—went to Joseph Benintendi, 43-year-old ex-convict, described as the leader of his own betting ring.

High Schools to Tighten Controls On Prep Stars

ESTES PARK, Colo. (AP)—Backing up collegiate athletic sanity codes, the National Federation of State High School Athletic Associations says competitive bidding for young stars is harmful both to boys and to amateur athletics.

The federation yesterday adopted a strongly worded resolution condemning try-outs and bidding by institutions of higher learning. It termed it "unethical, unprofessional and psychologically harmful."

Charging such collegiate recruitment "destroys the amateur nature of athletics," the federation said in a resolution that it "tends to commercialize the individual and the programs."

The group approved actions to halt such practices taken by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, the American Council on Education and other accrediting agencies.

FIGHT RESULTS
WASHINGTON, D. C. — Glen Flanagan, 136, St. Paul, outpointed Gene Smith, 126 1/4, Washington, 10.

MAJOR LEAGUE STARS
BATTING: BILL STECHERSON, PHILADELPHIA—Hit a pinch hit home run with a man on base in the eighth inning to give the Phils a 2-1 nightcap win and a sweep of a doubleheader with Dodgers. Phils won the opener, 4-3.
PITCHING: HARRY BRECHEN, CARDINALS—Hurled a three-hit shutout as Cards defeated Cincinnati, 3-0.

The 32-year-old San Diego churner thinks she can cover the 21 miles from the Catalina Isthmus to Cabrillo Beach on the mainland in 16 hours. If she makes good time before the whitecaps start kicking up, she hopes to equal the 15 hours, 40 minutes mark set by George Young in 1927.

The story of the Blimp is almost as interesting as watching it perform its antics in the sky. The Blimp "Century" is flown by the senior lighter-than-air pilot of the world. Mr. Vernon Smith has approximately 16,000 hours flying time, or a total of two and a half years out of his life spent in the air. The Stag Blimp is 153 feet long, has a diameter of 40 feet, standing 51 feet high on its landing wheels, and is inflated with over 124,000 cubic feet of Helium, yet the pressure in an ordinary toy balloon is 22 times greater than that inside the blimp's envelope. The envelope is new, but the gondola, or control car, has an interesting war history. Among its accomplishments, it was used to transport last minute supplies to the aircraft carrier Hornet, enabling General Jimmy Doolittle's fliers to successfully complete the now famous First Tokyo Raid.

The blimp is powered by two 145 horsepower engines, mounted on outriggers which give it a top speed of 62 miles per hour, a cruising speed of 50 miles per hour, and a range of 600 miles. Over four thousand small light bulbs on the side of the ship are used to flash the latest news to your town's citizens in the evening. The public is cordially invited to come out and inspect the blimp. There will be someone on hand to answer your questions at all times.

PHILADELPHIA (NEA)—Hank Sauer's deep slump following his sensational home run spree was no surprise to Johnny Wyrostek.

The Phillies' outfielder is a former Cincinnati teammate of the Cub slugger.

"Hank hits in streaks, and when he hits he looks mighty good," Wyrostek said. "But when he slumps, he can look awfully had."

Sauer smashed three homers off Philadelphia Southpaw Curt Simmons, then went 21 times without a hit, struck out on seven occasions.

Sports-minded citizens in the Dixon area will find no shortage of activities of a sporting nature in these parts over the big Holiday weekend.

SOMETHING A BIT different will be offered here Friday during the big Fourth of July celebration with swimming races scheduled for Municipal pool and speedboat races to be held above the Rock River dam.

Along with these spectator sports (for most of us, at least) the usual fine recreational facilities offered by the Rock River valley area—swimming, tennis, golf, fishing, etc.—are expected to be used to capacity by those who don't prefer to spend the Holiday under a shade tree.

AT LEAST SIX young Dixon tennis players will have an active weekend in Clinton, Ia., participating in the Mississippi Valley Tennis tourney.

Al Newcomer, Jim Boedeker, Bill Gorham and John Kurrock have entered the junior singles division, and Henry Uley and Tom Corken have entered the boys' singles play. These six players also will pair off in the men's doubles. They will play under the banner of the local Elks club.

SPEAKING OF TENNIS, the local Jaycees have dropped their plans for sponsorship of a tennis tourney here this summer. A shortage of funds (the Jaycees already are sponsoring a golf meet) has dictated the decision, we hear.

Paid a visit to "Red" Flanagan and a few of his Junior Legion baseball players the other evening at Reynolds field. The time was about 8:30 p. m., it was nearly dark, but Flanagan was hard at work driving ground balls to Ken Nafzinger, at third base; Rae Nelson (of Ashton) at shortstop; and to Larry Butler (also of Ashton) at first base; while Don Wakeley was doing the catching at home.

NEILSON, who has done some pitching, has a fine arm from short; the same can be said for Wakeley when he relaxes behind the plate.

It would be interesting to know the total hours "Red" has spent with his boys on the Reynolds field diamond this season in just such practices. He knows that the only way to build an infielder is to hit ground balls to him for hours at a time. Some day this hard work on Flanagan's part should pay off with an outstanding baseball team for Dixon.

Wonder-Boy Bob Mathias Sets New World Record

TULARE, Calif. (AP)—The Bob Mathias story, a small town wonder inscribed in the records of the world, took on another amazing and magnificent chapter Thursday.

The next pages will be added this month in the Olympic games at Finland, when handsome, 21-year-old Bob, the world's greatest track and field athlete, collides again with the best of other lands.

Writes New Chapter
But first comes the chapter written Wednesday night by Mathias, who is undoubtedly Tulare's favorite son and who might well be America's nicest guy.

Mathias accomplished these feats:

He broke the world record of 7,444 points he set in 1950 with a smashing 7,825 points.

He won the United States championship for the fourth time, something no one else ever did.

He won his berth on the U.S. Olympic decathlon team, and left this little town of 12,000 this morning.

Mathias was national winner in 1948-49-50-51. Six-foot-two, 200 pounds, he is about 10 pounds heavier than in '48. But he improved all his previous best decathlon marks except in the pole vault and 1500 meter run. He was just a shade under them.

Here are his marks set in the wearing, wearing two-night program: 100 meters—0:10.8; broad jump—23-5 1/4; shotput—49-10 1/2; high jump—6-2 1/4; 400 meter run—0:50.8; 110-meter high hurdles—0:14.3; discus—157-11 1/4; pole vault—12-3 1/4; javelin—183-10 1/4; 1500 meter run—4:55.3.

Brewers of Stag Will Celebrate 100th Anniversary

The big Stag Blimp will be hovering over Sterling, Dixon and Amboy on Thursday, July 3rd, (weather permitting) en route to its ten-state Good Will Tour to commemorate the 100th Anniversary of the brewers of Stag.

The story of the Blimp is almost as interesting as watching it perform its antics in the sky. The Blimp "Century" is flown by the senior lighter-than-air pilot of the world. Mr. Vernon Smith has approximately 16,000 hours flying time, or a total of two and a half years out of his life spent in the air. Paris School Head Sues to Regain Post

PARIS, Ill.—(AP)—Othel R. Eaton sued Wednesday to get back his $6,000-a-year job as superintendent of the Community School District No. 4.

He claimed in his Circuit court suit that his ouster at the end of the recent school year was in violation of the Illinois Teachers' Tenure Act.

Eaton also contended he had been relegated to a $3,700 teacher's job through a "subterfuge" by the school board. His teacher's job is to begin with the new school term next September.

His suit did not state the reasons for his dismissal nor did the school board immediately reply to his allegations.

Eaton's suit asked the court to rule that he be returned to his job as head of the rural school district surrounding Paris. He was superintendent four years.

Defendants in the suit are Clayton Marrs, school board president; Roscoe Walls, secretary; and Roy Curl, Edward H. Gumm, John Stanley, Robert Davis and Mayo Hiddle, board members.

Senator Tobey To Be Married Before Elections

CONCORD, N. H.—(AP)—Sen. Charles W. Tobey, New Hampshire Republican, who is 72, and Mrs. Lillian Crompton, about 65, are engaged to be married.

The engagement was announced Wednesday by the senator's office. No date has been set for the wedding.

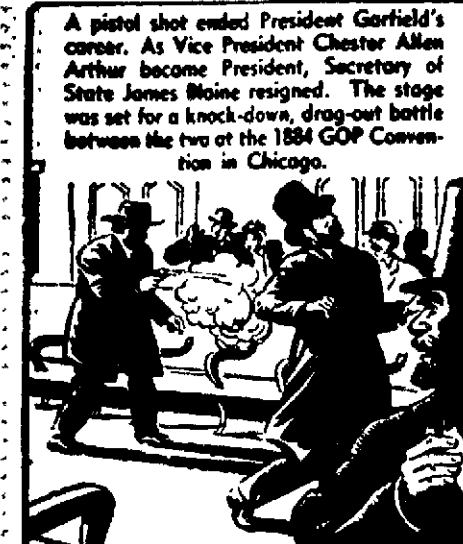

Tobey has been married twice before. His first wife died in 1946 and his second last December.

Mrs. Crompton, a resident of Wilton, N. H., is a widow. Each has four children.

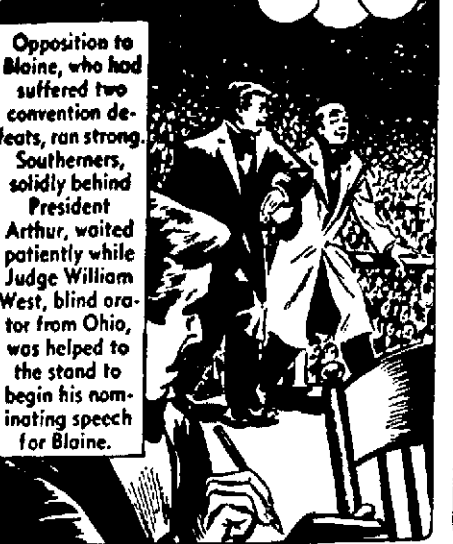

UNCLE EF

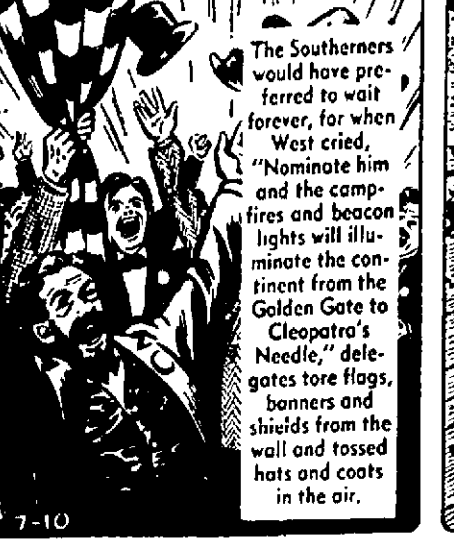

It's funny how exacting everything has become, even down to eggs. On a chicken farm, an old hen's life depends on her keeping up her egg-laying average. She doesn't know it, but there's never more than a percentage point between her and a stew pot.

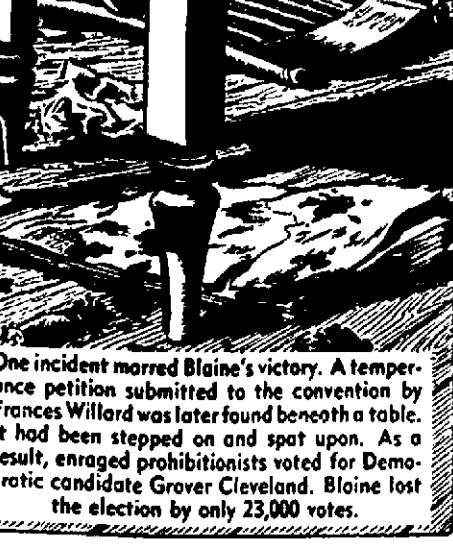

A pistol shot ended President Garfield's career. As Vice President Chester Allen Arthur became President, Secretary of State James Blaine resigned. The stage was set for a knock-down, drag-out battle between the two of the 1894 GOP Convention in Chicago.

Opposition to Blaine, who had suffered two convention defeats, ran strong. Southerners, solidly behind President Arthur, waited patiently while Judge William West, blind orator from Ohio, was helped to the stand to begin his nominating speech for Blaine.

The Southerners would have preferred to wait forever, for when West cried, "Nominate him and the campfires and beacon lights will illuminate the continent from the Golden Gate to Cleopatra's Needle," delegates tore flags, banners and shields from the wall and tossed hats and coats in the air.

One incident marred Blaine's victory. A temperance petition submitted to the convention by Frances Willard was later found beneath a table. It had been stepped on and spat upon. As a result, enraged prohibitionists voted for Democratic candidate Grover Cleveland. Blaine lost the election by only 23,000 votes.

Danville Man Attends 13th Convention

DANVILLE, Ill.—(AP)—Joseph Barnhart, 72, was packing his bags Thursday for a trip to his 13th Republican National convention.

The retired lawyer and ardent GOP party worker has attended every Republican convention since 1904. He also took in the 1924 and 1936 Democratic conventions as an "observer," he said.

Barnhart said his interest in politics developed in his youth when "Uncle Joe" Cannon, long-time speaker of the House of Representatives and a Danville resident, "took me to Washington with him when I was 18 years old."

Barnhart favors Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio for the Republican nomination but will support Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower if he should be the nominee, Barnhart said.

Still active as a GOP precinct committeeman in Danville, Barnhart said he expects to carry his precinct in November as he has in the past. Both he and his daughter have worked as party officials.

Barnhart owns a 112-year-old Danville home where Abraham Lincoln spoke before the Civil War.

Four Children Drown in Pond

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—(AP)—Four sets of footprints leading to a pond—and none returning—were mute evidence that four small girls waded to their deaths near here Wednesday.

The tracks in the soft mud, going to the water hole from four neat piles of clothing, were found by two worried mothers who feared the worst—and were right.

Bodies of the girls were pulled from the 12-foot-deep pond by divers within 90 minutes after the mothers screamed the alarm.

Drowned were Norma, Crunk, 12, her sister Joyce, 9, Bobbie Jean Hudson, 7, and her sister Gloria, 9. All lived at nearby Kerrville.

Youths Admit Four-Year-Old Gun Slaying

GALESBURG, Ill.—(AP)—Statements obtained from two youths have cleared up a four-year-old robbery-slaying of an elderly Galesburg painter.

William H. Small, assistant state's attorney, said Wednesday second degree murder charges will be lodged against Gus R. Mongo, 22, and Paul Hopping, 21. Small said the pair made statements in which they told of fatally shooting Jesse Rickards, 73, near his home June 6, 1948.

Small said Hopping walked into the Galesburg police station Saturday night and confessed killing Rickards. Hopping, according to Small, implicated Mongo who related his story to military and civilian authorities at Fort Custer where he is stationed. Mongo, a private, is a wounded Korean war veteran.

Small said Hopping carried a pistol during the holdup and that Mongo said that when Rickards ran from the youths Mongo begged Hopping not to shoot. Hopping ignored the plea. Small said the soldier related.

The youths said they obtained nothing in the holdup, Small related.
